HIST2M1 - Introduction

Introduction

HIST2M1 - Teaching profile

Learning outcomes

The master 60 in History, which the Bachelor in History leads directly on to, aims to build on students' methodological and critical skills when it comes to detecting and implementing information and applying it more specifically to a period (ancient times, Middle Ages, modern times, contemporary period) or a field of history.

Unlike the master 120, which mixes together all specialisations, it does not include the methodological aspects of research (applied to a dissertation) and communication in history. End of study work (not accreditable in the case of later passage to a master 120) deals with addressing a question on a given subject, and does not involve resorting to first-hand sources.

Subject to prerequisites, this degree allows students who already hold a master to acquaint themselves with the methods and techniques of historical research.

On successful completion of this programme, each student is able to :

1. d'approfondir les connaissances relatives à certains domaines et périodes de l'histoire
2. d'appliquer partiellement certaines des méthodes de recherche propres aux études historiques

Programme structure

The programme is made up of :

core courses : 45 credits (including 15 credits for the end of study work);
and optional courses (15 credits).

International candidates should submit their request to the University Enrolment Office according to the procedure outlined at : <https://uclouvain.be/fr/etudier/inscriptions>

Teaching method

The core courses on the Master 60 give an introduction to research, as well as interactive classes, based on dossiers, covering the various historical periods in the field 'Gouvernance et sociétés'.

A special place is reserved for the seminar (10 credits) which calls for a lot of research in libraries and archive centres, as well as substantial work in documentary criticism and preparation of an oral and written summary.

A large selection of optional courses allows the student both to gain more depth in the knowledge acquired in the bachelor programme and begin a cross-disciplinary approach.

Evaluation

The evaluation methods comply with the regulations concerning studies and exams. More detailed explanation of the modalities specific to each learning unit are available on their description sheets under the heading "Learning outcomes evaluation method".

Written and oral exams aim to measure the level of acquisition and grasp of basic concepts, theories, basic data and know-how in the different fields in question.

The exercises and seminars are the subject of continuous assessment.

The end of study work is marked by the supervisor and two readers.

Courses are evaluated according to current university regulations (see General Examination Regulations). Students may find further information on specific evaluation methods in the course descriptions.

Mobility and/or Internationalisation outlook

No Erasmus exchange is foreseen in the master 60.

Possible trainings at the end of the programme

Accessible masters :

[Master \[120\] in History](#) Direct access to the second year of the master; training includes the Dissertation and the Dissertation seminar (30 credits), one focus and the possible further trainings (maximum 30 credits).
