MUSI9CE - Introduction

Introduction

MUSI9CE - Teaching profile

Learning outcomes

The certificate in musicology is designed to give students studying any other subject training in musicology and, in so doing, to introduce them to the world of music, culture and contemporary music creation. The advanced training is designed to refine the tools and skills acquired during the basic training. The programme is as much focused on the history of music as more contemporary issues of musical language, sociology, analysis and aesthetics. It puts emphasis on access to and dialogue with the musical world of today, whilst at the same time requiring from students the academic rigour of classic musicological methodology.

This course is designed for adults who, in the context of lifelong learning, wish to develop their knowledge of music: people already engaged in professional life, whether in music or not, and who wish to follow a university training course; and students from musical institutions musicales (e.g. IMEP - Institut supérieur de musique et de pédagogie, Royal Conservatoires of Music IAD – Institut des Arts de Diffusion, etc.) who, immersed in the practice of music, wish to have a more theoretical and/or more critical training course.

The programme's courses and learning outcomes

For each UCL training programme, a reference framework of learning outcomes specifies the competences expected of every graduate on completion of the programme. You can see the contribution of each teaching unit to the programme's reference framework of learning outcomes in the document "In which teaching units are the competences and learning outcomes in the programme's reference framework developed and mastered by the student?"

The document is available by clicking this link after being authenticated with UCL account.

MUSI9CE - Information

Teaching method

The courses make use of a variety of teaching techniques and strategies (lectures, group work, individual work, seminars, reading etc.) which help students to acquire the necessary skills. Certain courses also use e-learning techniques (provision of resources and exercises, teaching devices, collective sharing and assessment of work).

Evaluation

The evaluation methods comply with the regulations concerning studies and exams. More detailed explanation of the modalities specific to each learning unit are available on their description sheets under the heading "Learning outcomes evaluation method".

According to the type of course, there are different forms of assessment. Certain courses have traditional oral and/or written assessments (which take place in the examination periods in January, June and August/September), while seminars involve student participation throughout the semester and the assessment of individual work. Further details on the assessment method are given at the beginning of each course.

Teaching activities are assessed in accordance with the rules currently in force at the University (see General Examination Regulations). Students may also find additional information on the particular methods of assessment in the course descriptions.

To obtain a student's average, the grades awarded for each course unit are weighted by their respective credits.
